PASS CRITICAL TEST

Ernest H. Cosby and Leslie F. Watson, well-known local organists, have received official notification that they successfully passed the examinations is recently conducted in this city by the American Gulld of Organists. These are the first "academic" degrees that have been conferred in this city by the guild, and Messrs. Cosby and Watson are now entitled to the use of the letters A. A. G. O. in connection with their names, to denote that they are associates of the American Guild of Organists.

The examination in practical work at the organ was conducted by Frank L. Sealy, organist of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, New York, and the candidates were required to prove their sbility by rigid tests, which included solo organ playing, sight reading, score reading, transposition at sight, reading from figured basses and

CATCHES OF FISH SURPASSRECORDS

OF REVOLUTION

Preparation is under way at the State Library for the publication of the names of Virginia soldiers who took part in the Revolutionary War, as far as they are procurable at this stime. State Librarian H. R. McIlwaine has augmented his office force temporarily in order to handle the immense amount of material.

These rolls will possibly be printed in the forthcoming annual report of the State Library Board.

For years past State Archivist H. J. Eckenrode has been engaged in collecting these names from such sources as were available to him, most of them being already in the library. As a result, he has secured between 40,000 and 45,000. Naturally, a good many of these are duplicates, since many men were enrolled from first to last in two or more commands. Besides, many people in those days had the unfortunate habit of spelling their names differently at various times, and it is practically impossible to tell whether or not two nearly similar names are those of the same person.

The sources of information are two nearly similar names are those of the same person.

The sources of information are varied. One is the pension list as it stood in 1530, when about the same proportion of Revolutionary heroes lived as now survive of the days of the sixties. Various publications fur-aish rolls or portions thereof, these being of material help.

Besides the men who were enlisted in the Continental army and the navy, there was a m'litia of that day. When called out these men were paid by the State. Records in the office of the Auditor of Public Accounts have been used in this connection.

The most valuable information is in the archives of the War Department in Washington. When Dr. McIlwaine attempted to secure these the Secretary of War refused, saying he would permit no person to handle these records. Some day, it is believed.
